The Location

The property enjoys a prominent, high profile corner position at the junction of Upper Dominick Street and Mountjoy Street - a highly central location that offers immediate access to all the amenities this busy city centre location has to offer.

Connectivity is exceptional, with the Luas Green Line running directly past the property. The Dominick Street Luas stop is just steps away, offering a fast, frequent service across the city.

The development is ideally positioned between Phibsborough, Smithfield and the Grangegorman development - one of Dublin's newest and most dynamic urban quarters, home to the Technological University Dublin (TUD) campus and a range of public amenities.

Retail and leisure options are plentiful with major high street destinations such as Henry Street and O'Connell Street just a short walk away. Additional nearby landmarks include DIT Bolton Street, The Kings' Inns, the ILAC Shopping Centre and the Rotunda Hospital which all further enhance the convenience and centrality of this location.

Description

Sartini Court comprises a purpose-built, residential led development completed c. 2009, comprising 27 premium apartments and three ground floor commercial units. Arranged over six storeys and accessed via two separate cores, the scheme is thoughtfully designed around an attractive central courtyard.

The development includes a secure basement car park with 20 spaces, accessed through a gated entrance. The residential offering consists of twenty-five spacious two-bedroom apartments and two one-bedroom units – all finished to an extremely high standard.

The ground floor commercial units, which are currently vacant, extend to approximately 362 sq m (3,896 sq ft), and offer significant potential for a variety of alternative uses (SPP).
