Primrose Cottage is a quaint detached thatched cottage located in a beautiful countryside setting, 10km from Enniscorthy town centre.

The property of approx. 93.5sq m briefly comprises of entrance porch, leading to a kitchen/dining room with open fireplace and kitchen units, to the right a sitting room with an open fireplace. To the left of the property lies the utility room leading into a bathroom. Upstairs are two bedrooms off a spacious landing.

This cottage has plenty of history, with the 'Buildings of Ireland website' describing the property as "A farmhouse identified as an integral component of the nineteenth-century vernacular heritage of County Wexford by such attributes as the alignment perpendicular to the road; the rectilinear lobby entry plan form off-centred on a later porch; the construction in unrefined local materials displaying a battered silhouette"

Outside, there is a private south facing lawn to the rear of the house, while to the front are a number of outbuildings which were formally used for dog kennels.

This truly is an exceptionally, unique, beautiful home and viewing is highly encouraged to appreciate everything it has to offer.
