DESCRIPTION

Anney Lodge is an impressive four bedroom Georgian style bungalow. Constructed in 2006 the property has been designed with the utmost care to capture as many Georgian features as possible, with some modern aspects including kitchen and bathrooms. The property is approached by a walled entrance with traditional iron electric gates and video intercom, leading on to a meandering driveway with gravel finish and flanked by metal estate railing on a site of c.2.3 acres. The entrance door has bespoke leaded fanlight and side panels. The side and rear of the property has been finished with an extensive area of flag stone paving, with detached garage and cobblelock surfaces to rear. The property has many features including granite window cills, sash windows, 10ft internal ceiling height, detailed cornicing throughout, solid mahogany internal doors with detailed joinery and high level skirtings, Scavolini Italian walnut and matt kitchen, and marble flooring throughout the hallways. The property is beautifully decorated internally, traditional marble fireplaces, and excellent quality carpets, flooring and tiling throughout. The property also has thermostatically controlled underfloor heating with an oil fired heating system, and is fully alarmed throughout.

LOCATION

Anney Lodge is located just outside the village of Ramsgrange in Co.Wexford, a short distance to the Hook Peninsula and Tintern Abbey and just c.4km from the seaside town of Duncannon. C.5km from Ballyhack and Passage East Car Ferry, (Waterford c.17km Via Ferry) and c.21km from New Ross.
