About this property

Invereske is a stunning three-storey period home set on wonderful, landscaped garden grounds offering excellent views across Donegal Bay. Dating from c.1860, this home has been in the family of the current owners since they purchased it in the 1920s. Located on the outskirts of Donegal Town in a situation, Invereske enjoys all of the amenities which the town has to offer while being surrounded by majestic, mature trees that provide seclusion and privacy.

Accessed off the R267 road, the house is approached by a tree-lined tarmac driveway which leads up towards a gravel drive in front of the house where there is ample parking. Upon entering into a porch, you are greeted by an inviting entrance hall which features handcrafted Victorian geometric floor tiles in the Braemar motif and an original staircase. The light-filled accommodation is of generous proportions and is suitable for both family living and entertaining guests. The main reception rooms accessed off the hallway, with both the living room and sitting room featuring decorative marble fireplaces, mantelpiece and bay windows. There is also a study off the entrance hallway which is ideal for those looking for a work-from home space.

Outbuildings

To the rear of the house is a yard with outbuildings currently in use as general storage but offers future scope for renovation (subject to the necessary planning consents). Both outbuildings extend to about 543 sq ft / 50 sq m.

Gardens & Grounds

The house sits amidst wonderful mature landscaped gardens with many fine specimen trees which is a notable feature and enhances the private situation and seclusion on offer at Invereske. The gardens are a peaceful oasis and are mainly in lawn surrounding the house including a generous south-facing lawn to the front.

In all the grounds extend to about 1.4 acres / 0.6 hectare.
